

We make the energy transition safe and realisable for everyone! EMH is an innovative, firmly established, medium-sized company that plays a leading role in the development, production and marketing of networked energy recording systems. Our smart products are a central digital building block for the realisation of a climate-neutral, affordable, secure and fair energy supply.

To support our product management team, we are looking for an experienced Product Manager (m/f/d) to join us as soon as possible at our location in Brackel (near Hamburg).

Product Manager (m/f/d)

Full-time (40 hours/week)

Your Responsibilities:

- Conduct market and product analyses and play a key role in the further development of our product portfolio.
- Create requirement specifications for new products.
- Oversee existing products as well as new and further developments throughout the entire product lifecycle, including profitability assessments and variant management.
- Identify industry trends through market analyses, both within and beyond our sector.
- Derive marketing objectives for product positioning based on these insights.
- Act as the interface between development, production, and sales/customers.
- Coordinate technical documentation.

Your Profile:

- A completed technical degree, ideally supplemented by a business qualification.
- Professional experience in product management and relevant methodological expertise; however, career starters with strong technical understanding and initial exposure to product development are also encouraged to apply.
- Strong communication and presentation skills, with excellent proficiency in German and English.
- Experience in international markets and intercultural competence are a plus, but at minimum, you should have a strong interest in global markets.
- Negotiation skills and assertiveness.

Our offer:

- A diverse and meaningful role in a stable and future-proof company.
- Competitive salary and attractive social benefits.
- Personal development opportunities through regular training programs.
- A modern work environment with flat hierarchies.
- Flexible working hours, a New Work concept, and health initiatives for a well-balanced work-life integration.
